LEADING YOUR COMPANY TO LEED

TIME: 9:00 a.m. – 10:30 a.m.

SPEAKER: Mark Hieber ASLA, LEED AP, Principal, Landscape Architecture + Design

Green Industry Contractors hear the words 'LEED' and 'sustainability' frequently at pre-bid meetings. Understanding how these words apply to your work can give you an advantage in the bid selection process where Owners and General Contractors are seeking companies who have aligned their business strategy with environmental responsibility. "Leading Your Company to LEED" will provide an overview of LEED and will explore and explain the value of providing sustainable services that you can adopt for your business to become a more effective "Green LEEDer."

As a steward of the land, Mark is focused on creating ecologically sound, sustainable environments that join people to the places where they live, work and play. With more than 35 years of experience in landscape architecture, his broad practice ranges from land planning, master planning, wayfinding and identity strategies to detail design.

He has led multi-disciplined planning teams for many successful projects throughout the country. Mark has been responsible for the development of planning strategies for campuses of many types as well as site-scale design, construction detailing, and planting design.
